Blossoming Partnerships to Highlight Mature Women Artists in Washington

Hi friend,

The warm days in May weren't the only thing heating up the Pacific NW! We have new videos of SOLA Awardees moving forward in big ways and excited to share several partnerships that are making the magic happen throughout the summer.

First up and linked below is the latest artist spotlight video for 2019 SOLA Awardee, Mary Coss. A fantastic team at University of Washington's Communications Leadership Program produced a dynamic story of Mary that had yet to be told. Jay Koh, Sean Anderson, and Manon Etchegoinberry are the graduate students that fired up the second year of our commitment to film all SOLA Awardees. And while we think they did a magnificent video, you can see for yourself in Mary's SOLA Awardee Video Spotlight — definitely one of the best spent 6 minutes and 15 seconds of our day!

There was so much good info in the last Community Call — insider tips on who archives are really for, what to keep or toss, and why bother. It was a significant start to our ongoing partnership with the Joan Mitchell Foundation as we support mature artists to get this important work on weekly calendars and out of damp basements. Watch the recording here and see below for handy links to the workbooks referenced.

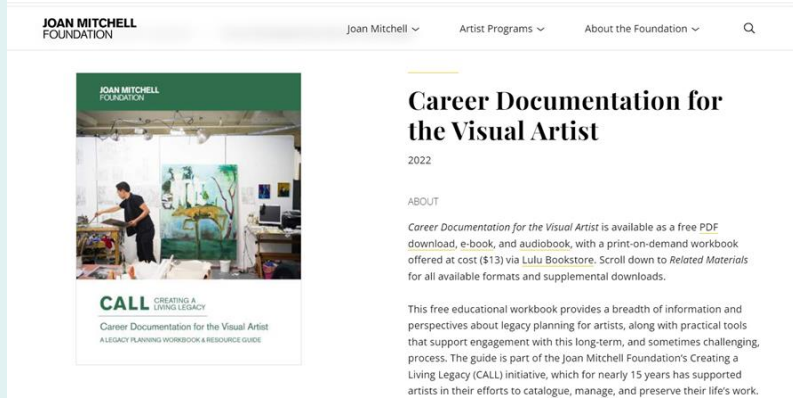

Our new professional development planner and workbook is paired with Community Calls to support artists looking to develop ideas and archives for their legacy. It's also a gorgeous highlight of the advice, inspirations and artworks of all SOLA Awardees through 2022. Just one of the many facets of SOLA's commitment to advance, reward, and recognize mature women in Washington who have persisted in accomplished careers in the arts.

Ongoing thanks to the Joan Mitchell Foundation for their commitment to support mature artists' legacies in their revised career documentation workbook. We are excited to team up with them in 2023 and share this material!
