

Announcing 2023 topics that support mature artists in building their legacy & archives

2023 Programs, Publication, & Partnerships

Hi friend,

SOLA's 2023 themes are Recognition, Community Building, & Legacy. We know! Each of those is really exciting, isn't it? Our programs for this year include interactive online workshops such as this one next month on May 16 from 6:30pm - 7:30pm PT.

SOLA Community Call Archiving & Preservation Planning Workshop. This legacy-themed Community Call is the beginning of your journey into neglected corners of your storage or studio, unruly boxes & stacks upon stacks of flat files with SOLA at your side. You'll need some things from our new publication, but it's free. Read on!

A graphic with a pink background. On the left is an image of a gallery wall. In the center, the text reads "ARCHIVING & PRESERVATION BUILD A PLAN" followed by a bulleted list: "What is archival?", "WHY it matters", and "Detailed tips & systems:" with sub-points "Sorting & Organizing", "Numbering", and "Finding". On the right is an image of a cluttered storage area with stacks of papers and boxes.

Our new publication is a professional development planner and workbook that will be paired with our Community Calls and, not only supports artists looking to developing ideas and archives for their legacy, but it is a gorgeous highlight of the advice, inspirations and artworks of SOLA Awardees through 2022. With over 80 pages of helpful worksheets and guides, this is just one facet of SOLA's commitment to advance, reward, and recognize mature women in Washington who have persisted in accomplished careers in the arts.

Download SOLA's new publication, Famous Female Artists: Planning for Success for FREE at our website: <https://solaseattle.org/resources/professional-support>. If you want a high-quality, slick & glossy version of this workbook with an easy-flip coil binding go to our page on Lulu.com.

ABOUT

Career Documentation for the Visual Artist is available as a free PDF download, e-book, and audiobook, with a print-on-demand workbook offered at cost ($13) via Lulu Bookstore. Scroll down to Related Materials for all available formats and supplemental downloads.

This free educational workbook provides a breadth of information and perspectives about legacy planning for artists, along with practical tools that support engagement with this long-term, and sometimes challenging, process. The guide is part of the Joan Mitchell Foundation's Creating a Living Legacy (CALL) initiative, which for nearly 15 years has supported artists in their efforts to catalogue, manage, and preserve their life's work.

Thanks to everyone that joined us for the latest SOLA Community Call on Tuesday, April 25. It was a fun networking event where artists across Washington introduced themselves via an older artwork created ten or more years ago. It was insightful to see their threads develop over time. A few dedicated women artists on the call shared art from over 40 years ago! Some real oldies, but goodies.

Software limited us from recording the individual presentations, but we did capture all the great stuff coming up at SOLA. Please connect with us for both online and in-person opportunities coming up.
